

Bio

Ann Marie Marciarille is an associate professor law specializing in health care law. Her research interests include health care antitrust, health care regulation, and a particular interest in health care organization and finance. Before joining UMKC, she had a long career as a health law attorney, including serving as a health care antitrust prosecutor for the California Attorney General's office and several years as a legal services attorney specializing in health care matters.

Professor Marciarille is a Phi Beta Kappa summa cum laude graduate of Amherst College and a cum laude graduate of Harvard Law School. She also holds a Masters in Theology, specializing in ethics, from Harvard Divinity School.

She has published articles on Medicare reform, Medicaid reform, health care finance reform and health care provider quality issues. Professor Marciarille taught Health Law, Health Care Reform, Health Care Regulation and Finance, Elder Law, Disability Law and Public Health Law at the University of California, Hastings College of the Law, Boalt Hall/Berkeley Law School, and Pacific McGeorge School of Law.

Areas of Expertise

Health Law, Antitrust, Public Health Law, Health Care Regulation and Finance, Civil Procedure